PREFACE

This report presents statistics on the number of inhabitants of the State, its counties, and minor civil divisions (townships, etc.). In addition, separate figures are also presented for urban places, wards of cities of 5,000 or more, and other areas of the State. These data are based upon tabulations from the Seventeenth Decennial Census of the population of the United States, its Territories, and possessions conducted as of April 1, 1950. Provision for the Seventeenth Decennial Census was made in the act providing for the Fifteenth and subsequent decennial censuses which was approved on June 18, 1929.

The major portion of the information compiled from the Census of Population of 1950 will appear in Volume I, Number of Inhabitants, and in Volume II, Characteristics of the Population. This report is a preprint of Chapter 15 (Iowa) of Volume I, which is to present, in a single publication, statistics on the number of inhabitants for each State.

The materials presented here will also appear as Chapter A of Part 15 (Iowa) of Volume II. Volume II will comprise a series of separately published parts, one for each State and a summary for the United States. The use of separate parts makes the basic materials on characteristics of the population for a given State available to the public in a single publication. Within the part for a State, Chapter A will recapitulate the statistics on the number and distribution of the population within a State; Chapter B will present statistics on the general characteristics of the population of the various political subdivisions of the State, such as counties, incorporated places, and the like; and Chapter C will present data on the detailed characteristics of the population of the larger areas within the State, such as cities of 100,000 inhabitants or more and standard metropolitan areas.

The materials presented here were prepared under the supervision of Howard G. Brunsman, Chief, Population and Housing Division, and Dr. Henry S. Shryock, Jr., Assistant Chief for Population Statistics, by Dr. Henry D. Sheldon, Chief, Demographic Statistics Section and Charles P. Brinkman, Chief, Population Distribution Unit; the compilation of the statistics was under the direction of Robert B. Voight, Assistant Chief for Operations. The collection of the information on which these statistics are based was under the supervision of Lowell T. Galt, Chief, Field Division. The geographic work, including the delineation of special types of urban territory and the preparation of maps, was under the supervision of Clarence E. Batschelet, Chief, Geography Division.

Number of Inhabitants

The State.—Iowa was organized as a Territory in 1838 with boundaries that included, in addition to the present area of the State, the eastern parts of the present States of North Dakota and South Dakota and the western part of the present State of Minnesota. Iowa was admitted to the Union in 1846 as the twenty-ninth State with boundaries substantially as at present. Its population on April 1, 1950, according to the Seventeenth Census, was 2,621,073. The State has a land area of 56,045 square miles. In 1950 there was an average of 46.8 inhabitants per square mile as compared with an average of 45.3 in 1940. Among the States, Iowa ranked twenty-second in both population and land area.

In 1850, the first year in which it was enumerated as a State in a Federal census, Iowa had a population of 192,214 (table 1). In 1950, 100 years later, its population was more than 13 times as large. By 1900, the population had increased to 2,231,853. The rate of population growth, which was rapid in the early years, slackened, and in the twentieth century the rate of growth for the State was consistently below that of the Nation as a whole. Between 1900 and 1950, the rates of change ranged from a decline of 0.3 percent for the decade ending in 1910 to an increase of 8.1 percent for the following decade. The largest numerical increase over the 50-year period also came in the decade 1910 to 1920. The increase of 82,805 between 1940 and 1950 represented a gain of 3.3 percent over the 1940 figure of 2,538,268.

Usual place of residence.—According to usual Census practice, which dates back to 1790, each person enumerated in the 1950 Census was counted as an inhabitant of his usual place of residence or usual place of abode, which is generally construed to mean the place where he lives and sleeps most of the time. This place is not necessarily the same as his legal residence, voting residence, or domicile, although, in the vast majority of cases, these different bases of classification would be identical.

In the application of this rule, persons were not always counted as residents of the places in which they happened to be found by the census enumerators. Persons in places where guests usually pay for quarters (hotels, etc.) were enumerated on the night of April 11, and those whose usual place of residence was elsewhere were allocated to their homes. Visitors found staying in private homes, however, were not ordinarily interviewed there. Information on persons away from their usual place of residence was obtained from other members of their families, landlords, etc. If an entire family was expected to be away during the whole period of the enumeration, information on it was obtained from neighbors. A matching process was used to eliminate duplicate reports for persons who reported for themselves while away and were also reported by their families at home.

Persons in the armed forces quartered on military installations were enumerated as residents of the States, counties, and minor civil divisions in which their installations were located. Members of their families were enumerated where they actually resided. In the 1950 Census, college students living away from home were considered residents of the communities in which they were residing while attending college, rather than as persons temporarily absent from their parental homes as was the practice in 1940. In 1950 the crews of vessels of the American Merchant Marine in harbors of the United States were counted as part of the population of the ports in which their vessels were berthed on April 1, 1950. In 1940 such persons were treated as part of the population of the port from which the vessel operated. Inmates of institutions, who ordinarily live there for long periods of time, were counted as inhabitants of the place in which the institution was located; whereas patients in general hospitals, who ordinarily have short stays, were counted at, or allocated to, their homes. All persons without a usual place of residence were counted where they were enumerated.

Urban and rural population.—The 1950 urban population of Iowa numbered 1,250,938 persons, or 47.7 percent of the population of the State (table 1). The urban population was living in the 93 incorporated places in the State and in other territory in the urban fringes of three urbanized areas entirely in the State and of the Iowa parts of three other urbanized areas partly in the State. Nearly one-half of the urban population of the State was living in urbanized areas (table 2).

The 1950 rural population of Iowa comprised 1,370,135 persons, or 52.3 percent of the population of the State (table 1). Of the rural population, 190,887 persons, or 13.9 percent, were living in the 126 incorporated places of 1,000 to 2,500 inhabitants (table 2).

Urban definition.—Under the urban definition established for use in the 1950 Census, the urban population comprises all persons living in (a) places of 2,500 inhabitants or more incorporated as cities, boroughs, towns,<sup>1</sup> and villages; (b) the densely settled urban fringe, including both incorporated and unincorporated areas, around cities of 50,000 or more; and (c) unincorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more outside any urban fringe. The remaining population is classified as rural. According to the urban definition used in previous censuses, the urban population comprised all persons living in incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more and areas (usually minor civil divisions) classified as urban under special rules relating to population size and density.

In both definitions, the most important component of the urban territory is the group of incorporated places having 2,500 inhabitants or more. A definition of urban territory restricted to such places, however, would exclude a number of equally large and densely settled places, merely because they were not incorporated places. Under the old definition, an effort was made to avoid some of the more obvious omissions by the inclusion of the places urban under special rules. Even with these rules, however, many large and closely built-up places were excluded from the urban territory. To improve the situation in the 1950 Census, the Bureau of the Census set up, in advance of enumeration, boundaries for urban-fringe areas around cities of 50,000 or more and for unincorporated places outside urban fringes. All the population residing in urban-fringe areas and in unincorporated places of 2,500 or more is classified as urban according to the 1950 definition. (Of course, the incorporated places of 2,500 or more are urban in their own right.) Consequently, the special rules of the old definition are no longer necessary.

<sup>1</sup> Except in New England, New York, and Wisconsin, where "towns" are minor civil divisions of counties and are not necessarily densely settled centers like the towns in other States.

Since there were no unincorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more delineated in Iowa, the urban population of the State according to the 1950 urban definition consisted of the 1,229,433 inhabitants of the 93 incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more and the 21,505 persons living outside incorporated urban places in the urban fringes of the 6 urbanized areas entirely or partially within the State. Since there were no places urban under special rule according to the old definition, the population of the first element comprised the urban population according to the old definition. The population of the second element—21,505—represents the gain in the urban population which resulted from the change in definition.

Although the Bureau of the Census has employed other definitions in the course of its history, the statistics on the population by urban and rural residence for the years 1840 to 1940 are shown in accordance with the old definition. The 1950 statistics are shown in accordance with both the new and old definitions.

Trends of urban and rural population.—Trends in the urban and rural population can be examined only on the basis of the old definition. On this basis, the urban population of Iowa rose steadily from 572,386 in 1900 to 1,229,433 in 1950 (table 1). Both the largest numerical increase and most rapid rate of growth over the 50-year period came in the decade 1910 to 1920. The 1950 total was 145,202, or 13.4 percent, above the 1940 figure of 1,084,231. All but 1 of the 23 cities of 10,000 inhabitants or more increased in population between 1940 and 1950 (table 4). In 1900 there was one city of 50,000 inhabitants or more in the State; by 1950 there were five. The population in cities of this size increased from 62,139 in 1900 to 473,999 in 1950, and the proportion of the population of the State in these cities rose from 2.8 percent to 18.1 percent. The proportion of the population of the State living in urban territory increased from 25.6 to 46.9 percent over the 50-year period.

In contrast to the steady increase in the urban population, the rural population declined in each decade of the period 1900 to 1950, dropping from 1,659,467 in 1900 to 1,391,640 in 1950 (table 1). The largest numerical decline as well as the most rapid rate of decline came in the first decade of the 50-year period, when the rural population decreased by 114,750, or 6.9 percent. The decline between 1940 and 1950 was 62,397, or 4.3 percent. The proportion of the population of Iowa living in rural territory declined from 74.4 percent in 1900 to 53.1 percent in 1950.

Counties.—The counties in Iowa ranged in size from Adams with a population of 8,753 to Polk with a population of 226,010 (table 5). Between 1940 and 1950, 32 of the 99 counties in the State increased in population as against 56 in the previous decade. Each of the five counties of 100,000 inhabitants or more in the State had gains between 1940 and 1950, with Polk County accounting for more than one-third of the population gain of the State. The most rapid rate of increase was experienced in Johnson County, which had an increase of 37.9 percent.

Minor civil divisions.—To the primary political divisions into which counties are divided, the Bureau of the Census applies the general term "minor civil divisions." The minor civil divisions in Iowa are the townships and Sioux City, which is independent of township organization and constitutes one of the primary divisions of Woodbury County. The cities (other than Sioux City) and towns form subdivisions of the minor civil divisions in which they are located.

Table 6 shows statistics on the population of each county by minor civil divisions for the last three censuses. The population of each city (other than Sioux City) and town is shown in italics under the population of the township in which it is located. When a city or town lies in two or more minor civil divisions, the population of the several parts is shown in table 6 in the appropriate counties and minor civil divisions, and each part is designated by "part." Figures on the total population of such places are given in table 7. Changes between the 1940 Census and the 1950 Census in the boundaries of areas listed are shown in notes to table 6. For changes in boundaries prior to the 1940 Census, see reports of the Sixteenth Census (1940), Population, Vol. I, pp. 367-378, and reports of earlier censuses.

Incorporated and unincorporated places.—In 1950, Iowa had 934 places which were incorporated as cities and towns. There were 1,697,980 persons living in the incorporated places, 468,547 of whom were living in the 841 places under 2,500 inhabitants. The incorporated places ranged in size from Donnan town with a population of 36 to Des Moines city with a population of 177,965. The Bureau of the Census did not delineate any unincorporated places in Iowa.

Political units recognized as incorporated places in the 1950 Census are those which are incorporated as cities, boroughs, towns, and villages with the exception that towns are not recognized as incorporated places in the New England States, New York, and Wisconsin.

The Bureau of the Census had delineated boundaries for the thickly settled urban fringe around cities of 50,000 or more and has also delineated boundaries for unincorporated places of 1,000 or more which are densely settled population centers without corporate limits. Although there are unincorporated places within the urban fringe, it was not feasible to establish boundaries for such places and therefore they are not identified as separate places.

The count of urban places in the 1950 Census includes all incorporated places of 2,500 or more regardless of location and unincorporated places of 2,500 or more which are located outside the urban-fringe areas. Incorporated places of less than 2,500 which lie in the urban fringe are not recognized as urban places.

Urbanized areas.—There were three urbanized areas entirely in Iowa and three partly within the State. There were 362,532 persons living in the first three areas—the Cedar Rapids, Des Moines, and Waterloo Urbanized Areas—and 212,969 in the Iowa parts of the Davenport (Iowa)—Rock Island—Moline (Ill.), Omaha, Nebr., and Sioux City Urbanized Areas. Of the 575,501 persons in the State living in urbanized areas, 473,999 were in the five central cities, Cedar Rapids, Davenport, Des Moines, Sioux City, and Waterloo, and 101,502 were in the urban fringes. The population of the urban fringes included 85,204 persons in five cities and six towns and 16,298 in the unincorporated parts (tables 2 and 9).

Each urbanized area contains at least one city with 50,000 inhabitants or more in 1940 or according to a special census taken since 1940, and some urbanized areas contain two or more cities of 50,000. Each urbanized area also includes the surrounding closely settled incorporated places and unincorporated areas that meet the criteria listed in the section below on "Urban fringe." Thus, the territory of an urbanized area may be classified into incorporated parts and unincorporated parts. (See urbanized area maps.)

An urbanized area also may be divided into central city or cities and urban fringe as defined below.

Central cities.—Although an urbanized area may contain more than one city of 50,000 or more, not all cities of this size are necessarily central cities. The largest city of an area is always a central city. In addition, the second and third most populous cities in the area may qualify as central cities provided they have a population of at least one-third of that of the largest city in the area and a minimum of 25,000 inhabitants. The names of the individual urbanized areas indicate the central cities of the areas.

Urban fringe.—The urban fringe includes that part of the urbanized area which is outside the central city or cities. The following types of areas are embraced if they are contiguous to the central city or cities or if they are contiguous to any area already included in the urban fringe:

1. Incorporated places with 2,500 inhabitants or more in 1940 or at a subsequent special census conducted prior to 1950.

2. Incorporated places with fewer than 2,500 inhabitants containing an area with a concentration of 100 dwelling units or more with a density in this concentration of 500 units or more per square mile. This density represents approximately 2,000 persons per square mile and normally is the minimum found associated with a closely spaced street pattern.

3. Unincorporated territory with at least 500 dwelling units per square mile.

4. Territory devoted to commercial, industrial, transportation, recreational, and other purposes functionally related to the central city.

Also included are outlying noncontiguous areas with the required dwelling unit density located within  $1\frac{1}{2}$  miles of the main contiguous urbanized part, measured along the shortest connecting highway, and other outlying areas within one-half mile of such noncontiguous areas which meet the minimum residential density rule.

<sup>1</sup> According to the new urban definition, the urban population comprises persons residing in urban territory but not necessarily in an urban place, which is defined as an incorporated place of 2,500 or more, or an unincorporated place of 2,500 or more located outside an urbanized area. Under the old definition, incorporated places of 2,500 or more and places urban under special rule are classified as urban places. In Iowa there were no unincorporated urban places in 1950 or places urban under special rule according to the old urban definition.

URBANIZED AREA MAPS

The five urbanized areas located in part or entirely in Iowa, for which statistics are shown in table 9, are depicted in the following maps. The shaded areas, in combination, comprise the urbanized area. To assist in locating the exact external boundaries of the area, each boundary feature (street segment, political boundary or other) has been assigned a number. The boundary segments thus numbered are shown on the map and the features to which they apply are presented in the following key.
